October 28: Navigating the Holocaust and the Closet: An Oral History of LGBTQ+ Children of Holocaust Survivors ~ Jacob Evoy

Sponsors: Carmen Rosenfeld and Ron McNish

The oral histories of LGBTQ+ children of Holocaust survivors provide a unique perspective on 20th-century queer and Jewish history in Canada and the United States. These children have particular insights into many of the major watershed moments in Jewish, queer, and post-Holocaust history from the Eichmann Trial to Stonewall, and the rise of Holocaust collective memory and public discourse to the trauma of the AIDS epidemic. This presentation will explore their lives through their own words, to shed new light on the lasting legacies of the Holocaust, anti-Semitism, and homophobia.

Jacob Evoy is a Ph.D. candidate at Western University, completing a collaborative degree in Women's Studies and Feminist Research and Transitional Justice and Post-Conflict Reconstruction. His research interests include Holocaust and genocide studies, trauma studies, as well as queer theory and history.
